Abstract

Migration refers to the process of moving from one political geographical boundary to a very different area due to social, political and cultural circumstances. Literature is created around this. This is called diaspora literature. It has now developed as a separate literary genre in Tamil. It is also an important one. This type of literature narrates the experiences of migrants. Migrants have settled in many countries. But this type of literature narrates the painful life events behind it. In the short story collection “Avarkalin Desam”, author Mathalai Somu has narrated the life of the migrants. Migrant people live in a state of poverty. Some live as slaves. Only a few are in a good condition. However, this reveals that they are living in hiding, forgetting their language, culture, and traditions.
